

In the specification:

At page 24, please insert the following:

--ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to packaging water or solvent based formulations, in particular to those formulations which are prone to skinning. The invention comprises a container that is adapted to contain such a formulation in which an anti-skinning layer is located between at least a portion of an internal surface of the container or a lid and the formulation.--